Eyen such confirmed and expressed social- goes to support his landlord and ists as M. Jaunes have nothing to allege against his rule, and M. Jaunes himself stands up in the Chamber of Deputies and is able to point to the contrast between the manner in which he is received and the threatening invectives hurled at the heads of Herr BEBEL in the Reichstag by the Imperial Chancellor. Yet Herr BEBEL's i the largest party in Germany, and while ministerialists can send to the poll their million and a quarter of voters Herr Bebel found himself backed by no less than three millions. Fortunately for Germany there still exists in the Reichstag a refuge for free speech, and the outspoken tribune has been able to speak out some truths, very unpleasant to the Government, and all the more so that the hectoring Prince von Bullow has been unable to deny their the process in China; the peasant finds the truth, and has been driven by the irony of fate too take refuge in the last asylum of untruth-invective. One of these worthics was a the old and worn out expedient of dragooning | man called CHANG HIEN-CHUNG, a Shensi an entire nation, as if ever in history that | man, who led his forces into the adjacent expedient had proved successful, or had province of Szech'wan. When the imperial should evince the great interest which general arrived, so complete had been the they undoubtedly do in what some enthusiasts call the Russian "Revolution." That the folly of Autocracy, as is called the fantastic exhibition of disorderly bureaucracy under which Russia grouns, for the Kaiser, and M. Jaures warns him handsome remuneration of $500, which seems a has come home to the canaille of the that the shattering of the Russian Throne nation is indisputable, but revolution though it may be largely brought about by terror, and through terror may be led to the perpetration of the most sickening atrocities, can never succeed in reconstructing a nation until it fall into the hands of a leader. Now it is precisely the want lenders, or a capacity for leading, that renders so singularly ineffective the whole system of Russian government. As a nation the Russian people are devoid of those qualities which go towards making country great. Russia, indeed, a few years. ago looked big on paper. When in 1849 she sent across the Hungarian frontier some thousands of men in uniform, who gained a victory over a few thousands of unorganised and insufficiently armed able Power. The Crimean war, unluckily, A.S. WATSON & CO. more effective when put to the test than of ambition. the display of tiger shields which the Chinese army of half a century ago conceived would strike terror into the hearts of European antagonists. Since then Russia retrogressing; in 1017 sue indeed, after the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands. succeeded in capturing from a poorly equipped and disheartened Turkish army the fortress of Plevna, but the strain so completely disorganised her that she had to yield up at Berlin all the fruits, as she considered them, of the disastrous campaign. All Russia's leaders in all time have come from the alien races. At the beginning of the regime her rulers, themselves of foreign blood, had the ability to recognise this, but their successors, the feeble and truculent bureaucracy who represent government there in these latter days, have been ambitious of kicking down the ladder by which their predecessors ascended. This is the position which M. JAURES and his companions fail to comprehend. When therefore, M. JAURES told the meeting of the Socialists of Paris that the Russian Revolution" was distinctly international in character he misunderstood the position THERE have been in all ages crowned heads | entirely: as a fact the French people have who would have esteemed it the same of no interest one way or other in the emeute human felicity to have been able after seven in that country—which is merely the wriglong years to take off their crowns, and gling of a people who have congregated retire from business with the sure conviction the land in numbers so great as to overtion that they had served their country tax its capabilities. In the pensant's eyes the situation is simple; relief can only come by disburdening the land of the latter; if they go quietly he is content; but if they will not his remedy is to cut their throats. But the laudlord and the Chinovnik have very similar ideas with regard to the peasant, and very little of international interest in all this, and the world at large has no social nor political lessons to learn therefrom. Up to the present the Chinovnik has had rather the better of it, and the Tsan as its figurehead has been able to thank his Cos-

But M. JAURES and Herr BEBEL can do some good even here. The ways of his imperial cousin have a curious fascination would bring down all the other thrones in Europe. This is hardly wise on the Frenchman's part, for the Kaisen already has some apprehension to the same effect. and is generally credited with a desire to follow NICOLAS I.'s example and send his troops into Poland. Herr BEBEL is plainly wiser in his generation, and warns him that should be needlessly interfere in his neighbour's affairs, the German proletariate would ask him, is this a struggle into which we can throw ourselves? As a fact the European thrones are quite safe so long as their occupants keep their fingers out of their neighbour's pies. It was precisely this habit of M. Mr. Hume Nisbet, author and artist, is at present staying at the King Edward Hotel, being on a tour in the East for the benefit of his health. Mr. Nisbet is a somewhat prolific writer of fiction, and many readers will be acquainted with many of his stories which are to be found in Geo. Bell & Co's list of Colonial Editions, and largely deal with Colonial matters.

Viceroy Chang Chih-tung has detailed three battalions of the reorganised Hupeh provincial army to act as guards to the Peking-Hankow Railway, from Hankow to the southern banks of the Yellow River. From the northern banks of that river to Peking the Viceroys and Governors of the provinces through which the line passes will detail each a battalion or so to act as guards of his particular section.

The Sunday Sun pays a big compliment to the men of the China Squadron, It says :- "Had Charles Joseph Bonaparte been in Manila during the visit of the British Floet, it would have done his heart good to witness the good behaviour of the sailor hosts and their guests. arrests were made during the visit of the floot. and only three men were left here on the sailing of the visitors for Saigon."

A Chinese saying runs, "The sea has no bounds, the Yellow River no bottom." It is in this missed as unfounded. The name of one of His Excellency's racing ponies now in training is giving some trouble to the note-takers. It is variously written as "Shimeosite," "Shimoseite," etc. These are ugly words; why not "Shimosa," which accompanies Lyddite and Aconite just as well, and is, besides, the official name of the explosive.

"Scotsman" writes :- "The Scots will have to look to their laurels. The Male Choir which rendered Scotch part songs at the Burns concert on Saturday was composed practically of Englishmen, and when one recalls the stories of Highland regiments being filled with men who speak with a Cockney accent or an Irish brogue, one is inclined to put the question afresh 'Stands Scotland where she did f Perhaps some son of Caledonia, not very stern or wild, can offer an explanation."

Apparently Chinese actors, like their Occidental confreres, can obtain very high salaries when they attain to some distinction in their profession. A "number one" stage artiste from Canton has, we are told, just been engaged by a local Chinese theatre for seven days at the is made between the emcluments of European and Chinese actors, it will be admitted that this gentleman, judged by the standard of salary, is in the front of his profession.

The practice of farming tickets for admission | that an alliance with Japan at present did to the best parts of native theatres has long been a source of trouble to the police in Hong. kong. Some outsiders procure all the dollar tickets for front seats and offer these for sale at the entrance at perhaps one dollar ten cents. As the intending visitor cannot to pay the enhanced price or content himself with a cheaper and less convenient seat. Not a few Chinese make a living in this way, and though the police are endeavouring to suppress the practice it is difficult to catch those sugaged. However, one man was captured at the Tai Ping theatre on Friday night and had to leave a bail of $25 before he regained his liberty. This was estreated by his failure to appear before the Magistrate next day

The following words occurred in an essay on "Character and Education," by a Chinese student :-- "A glance at the present condition of some of the government schools in China will amply prove this statement. The managers and presidents of many of the aforesaid schools are themselves luzy, opium smokers, and gam-English and have not the least experience in the practical management of schools. They owe their position to the fact that they happen to be the nephews and sons-in-law of certain officials. Then the professors and teachers, following the example of their superiors, also neglect their duties. In short, all shut their eyes to the responsibility that is placed in their hands of making the boys and pirls entructed to them gentlemen and gentlewomen. They are not turning out men of moral character, but graduates with a smattering of English and leose principles of life, who are a constant source of danger to our country. NAVAL UNIFORM.

A Portsmouth correspondent has received a letter from Lord Tweedmouth, the new First Lord of the Admiralty says the N. and M. Record, stating that his lordship understands there is no truth in the rumour that alterations in the seamen's dress are to be made at an early date. Many changes are being made in the navy, and the blue jacket of the future will have a good working knowledge of mechanics, and will be able to handle tools. He will still, however, be a sailer, and he will still dress as such. Rumours as to changes in the uniform to be worn by the seaman class of the fleet have been current for some time, but they may be dis-Admiralty are not aware of any such revolution as has been repeatedly prophesied, though it is true that efforts are being made to reduce the redundancy of kit with which men have to provide themselves under the present regulations, and thus save much unnecessary expense. It is common knowledge, writes the naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, that this matter has been under consideration for some time past, but it is authoritatively stated that there is no intention of departing from the present familiar and popular uniform in any essential detail. The blue jacket of the Royal Navy will continue to be the breezy, looseand handkerchiefs appropriated. The rogues legged, popular hero that he has been for many -venrs, but since—unlike the soldier—he has to buy his own clothes, an effort is to be made to banish some of the articles of wear which are recognised as not absolutely essential. Throughout the navies of the world the naval uniform of the British Fleet has been copied with more or less faithfulness. It has stood the test of time, and is undoubtedly an added attraction to the service.

THE DEATH OF MR. PREFONTAINE.

A PATRIOTIC CANADIAN. On page 9 of our Saturday's issue, we published an interview with the Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, a member of the Canadian Cabinet. He was strongly in favour of a Canadian Navy. It appears that he died soon after his return from England. The Canadian press deplores the loss sustained by the country through the death of Mr. Prefontaine. Several journals recall the fact that while he was Mayor of Montreal and a member of Parliament be took a stand contrary to that of most Quebec | the Royal Navy and Royal Marines, who must politicians, and favoured the despatch of the be borne on the ships' books of the unit they Canadian contingent to South Africa, also taking the lead in the loyal civic celebrations on the occasion of the contingent's departure from Montreal.

HONGKONG CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB.

OPENING OF NEW CLUB HOUSE. The Hongkong Corinthian Yacht Club celebrated an interesting event in their rather short history on Saturday afternoon by the formal opening of their new premises at Praya East. Naturally the occasion brought out a fairly large attendance of members and friends, so that there was quite a numerous assembly to acolaim Mrs. Francis Clark, wife of the Commodore, when she performed the opening

The club house itself was the subject of expressions of appreciation and congratulations to the members. Situated almost in front of No. 2 Polica Station and built in bungalow fashion, the structure is very next and compact. A movable partition marks off the dressing room, while the convenience. required by yachtsmen are provided-there being a loft for storing sails, lockers, etc.; and in all respects the club house is admirably -adapted for its purposes. It is raised from the ground a few feet, and on descending the steps at the rear one notes with approval the fine flag staff with its signalling apparatus. The whole, it should be added, is enclosed by a wooden

Among those present on-Saturday afternoon were Hon. Dr. and Mrs. Francis Clark, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. Hands, Mrs. Haxton, Mrs. Hill, Messrs. E. M. Hazeland (vice-commodore), J. J. Stubbings (secretary), J. Reidie. F. Allen, W. A. Crake, F. C. Casey, H. Gidley, E. F. Gibson, F. Howell, A. W. Hill, W. H. Woolley, W. Davison, A. A. Souza, R. Hudson, J. Hands, M. McIver, A. McKirdy, E. J. Mengens, J. W. Osborne, G. Taylor, and others. Mr. Hazeland called on Mrs. Clark, who had

kindly consented to open the new club house. Mrs. Clark said-Ladies and Gentlemen,-The Corinthian Yacht Club is a very young ture and the other destroyers, the Arun remain. Western methods, similar to the army in one, having been been formed as recently as ing at Gibraltar with her sister vessel the Hupeh in the North. The Minister ridiculed | the latter part of 1904, but I believe it already boasts a membership of over 120. The Committee are to be congratulated upon having provided you with such comfortable quarters within the brief space of 15 months. I am told that the aim of the club is to provide sport for a less expensive class of boats than the 24 raters and in this they have succeeded, by the establishment of a one-design class rating at about 21 with a sail area limited to 250 sq. ft., which can be built for less than one-fifth the cost of the 24 raters. The popularity of the club has necessitated the starting of a handicap or cruiser class for the encouragement of those members who own boats of other designs, and races for both classes are arranged at frequent intervals throughout the season. I dare any that not a few yachtmen's wives feel that they are a little neglected when their husbands devote almost-every holiday to sailing, but one must remember that there is no nearculos farm of recreation than this exposure to the sun, and the wind and the salt air, and that if we see less of them on this account they make up for it on their return by that sweet contentment which is the true index of a "mens sana in corpore sano." (Applause). There is also another feature on which wives may well congratulate thomselves, and that is that Hongkong has one of the safest harbours in the world for yachting, and although one may often see boats quite near to one another sailing with diverse winds, yet they generally manage to reach their destination in time, for as the Irishman says "It's an ill wind that blows nowhere" (laughter). Before declaring the club house open I have an announcement to make It is that Dr. and Mrs. Jordan have kindly offered to give two prizes to be arranged for competition by the club later (applause). I have now much pleasure in declaring the club

> The flags on the flag staff were then hoisted amid the applause of the members, after which Mr. Hazeland presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Clark, who made a suitable response.

> The cup presented by the Commodore (Hon. Dr. Clark) was then presented by Mrs. Clark to Mr. Hands.

> Tea was dispensed and a race for ten one design boats for prizes presented by boat-owning members followed, the boats being managed by boys. The first prize went to the boat owned by Mr. McIvor.

SOCIETY.

SCOTCH CONCERT. It was only to be expected that the Scotch 25th of January pass without in some form bard, but this year there were very good reasons for not holding the celebration on Thursday, and so the concert, arranged by the St. Andrew's Seciety, took place on Saturday night in St-George's Hall. There was a good attendancethough near the platform were a number of empty seats labelled reserve-H. E. Major General and Mrs Villiers Hatton and the Hon, Mr. and Mrs. Gershom Stewart were present. The concert, with one exception, was thoroughly Scotch, the place of honour, being accorded the lyrics and ballads of Robert Burns, whose memory is being kept green by "Ecots the warl o'er" in various ways at this time, and while the programme gave undoubted. satisfaction one could not fail to note the omission of a song which is associated with all Burns celebrations. We refer to the one where the poet sings of his own birth," There was a lad was born in Kyl." However, there was little to call for criticism in the concert, which | Mr. Benn. E.N., c T. Serafforded genuine pleasure to all who were pre- Mr. Woodward, R.N., e " auld lang syne." The band of the 2nd West Kent Regiment opened the programme with "Reminiscences of Major Lowis, e W. J. Scotland." Beginning most appropriately Lt. Larmour, b Pearce ... with the national song "Scots who has," they i played a delightful series of Scotch airs, both martial and sentimental, in the most artistic manner. They also drow upon the Gaelie muse and introduced a very effective imitation of hagpine accompaniment, the effect of which was to inspire an occasional "hooch" from a perfervid Scot. That, in the early part of the evening, mustindeed be regarded as a high tribut of approciation, "Auld Lang Syne" was a grand enimination to the selections, and the applaus which ensued was extremely onthusiastic. Th male choir next occupied the stage. It was composed of Messrs. L. Broughall, P. Dow and E. Paine, first tenors; Messrs. A. - J Darby, G. H. Edwards, Dr. C. Forsyth Messrs. L. D. Philpot and H. S. Wynno second tenors; Messra, J. D. Auld., F. Austin F. A. Biden, W. E. Leckie, J. A. Young and W. J. Terill, first basses; Messrs. W Armstrong, Bullock, A. G. Roberts, and F. W. Warre, second basses; with Mr. Geo. Grimble as accompanist. They essayed very successfully Sir Walter Scott's "Hail to the Chief," and were heartily applauded. Mr. W. E. Leckie scored a decided success with his rendering of "Mary Morison," a simple straightforward air sung in a most effective manner. He was encored, but contented himself with bowing his acknowledgments. Mrs. David Wood selected two of Burns' finest songs for her contribution. Unfortunately the accompanist and the artiste found themselves in disagreement in the first, "John Anderson, my Jo," with the inevitable result that the vocalist suffered and the song was spoiled. A happier state of affairs prevailed in the second, and "Ca' the ewes to the knowes" was faultlessly rendered. A departure from the printed programme brought Messrs. Broughall, Baxter and Gow on the platform, and of their performance it would hardly be possible to speak too highly. "Willie browed a peck o' maut," always a favourite, was sung in a manner which would enhance its popularity. The bacchanalian eccentricities of "the three merry boys" were ac'ed with admirable effect, and the performance of the trio was regarded as one of the best of the evening. A violin solo, "Legende," by Mrs. Ough, proved very acceptable, and Mr. J. D. Auld revealed a finetenor voice when he sang "Macgregor's Gather. ing," and the "Braes o' Balquither," given as an encore. Mrs. A. G. Gordon, always a persona grafa at Hongkong concerts, seemed to surpass all her previous efforts on Saturday night, She sang "Auld Robin Gray" in a manner which brought out all the pathos of Lady Lindsay's famous song, and it pappealed so strongly to her auditors that they, insisted on her re-appearance, when she obliged with "Here's to the year that's awa." A part song "Ye banks and brues," was not quite faultless, and recalled the advice of a writer who said it was a mistake to "sing a Scottish song as if it were a mixture of English and a foreign language."

Again the band of the West Kents, under Bandmaster McKelvie, stirred the audience to the greatest enthusiasm when they prefaced the second part of the programme with the fantasia "Scotland's Pride." The concluding air, "Will ye no come back again," had to be repeated before the audience were satisfied. "Scots wha hae" was well rendered by the male choir, and Mrs. Ough met with such success in her playing of two violin soles that her re-appearance was demanded. Mr. A. D. Galloway soon gained the favour of his hearers with his expressive rendering of " The deil's awa wi the excisemen," and he also was recalled, singing "Maggie Lauder" with rare effect. The sweet contralto voice of Mrs. Wood was again heard to advantage in "Gala Water," and "Ae fond kiss," sung as an encore. Gordon repeated her earlier sec "Lochnagar," complying with a recall by giving Lady Nairne's " Auld Hoose." The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the choir, joined in by the audience. brought the programme to an end, and the proceedings closed with the National Authem. Undoubtedly the concert was most enjoyable. and the Society are to be congratulated on their welcome contribution to the public ontertainment.

ROYAL ARTILLERY v. NAVAL YARD. The weather proved favourable for the open. ing match in connection with the Shield competition, and a fair attendance surrounded the field, but did not grow enthusiastic. As the game progressed it became more and more evident that the Artillerymen were superior in all round play, and the match would end in a victory for them. The players were :-

Royal Artillery. Patterson; Jonkins and 3.04, 3.37. Wilks, Harrant, Harbridge, West and Savage. Naval Yard: Walker ; Bacon and Watson Charlton, Radeliffe and Cooper; Bristoe, Davenport, Coyne, Almes and Glover.

The fall of the coin was in favour of the Artillery team, whose skipper class 1 to kick with the wind down the incline of the Naval 36 ground. The left forwards of the Yard got away, but Glover's dash on the R.A. goal was Extras...... 6 foiled by Wilks who, partnered by Harrant transferred the play. After a brief struggle in front of the Naval Yard's not the latter player notched the Artillery's first goal. Play then lingered in midfield until Glever get away again, but failed in his attempt to net. Charlton, who followed with a sharp low shot, was also unfortunate. The Naval Yard were next forced to defend, but the charges of the R.A. forwards were stubbornly resisted by Bacon and Watson who were, however, unable to withstand the continued attacks. Gradually the defenders were forced aside, but the citadel was not yet captured, Walker, who defended the entrance, returned shot after shot. For a time it looked as though it would be impossible for the leather to pass him, but Harbridge eventually puzzled him and succeeded in a second attempt, while Harrant's header shortly afterwards, added another to the R.A.'s score.

Half-time: Royal Artill ery; 4; Naval Yard, 6 With the wind in their favour the Yard improved a little, and for a time kept play in their opponents' territory, but as the half wore on their play grew worse, and the disheartened team were unable to relieve the continued pressure. Walker, however, assisted by the backs, did Trojan work in defence of his stronghold, and it was fortunate for the Yard that they had a mun in goal capable of turning off so many of the welldir cted sho's of Wilks, who was fed by his team. Before the whistle sounded Harbridge added another two goals to the R.A. score. Result: Royal Artiflery, 6; Naval Yard, 0.

H.M.S. "ARD" V. H.M.S. "WATERWITCH," This match was also played on the Naval ground at Happy Valley. The teams were evenly matched, and a fast and exciting game. was witnessed by the number present.

RUGBY:

HONGKONG V. H.M.S. "ANDROMEDA! A friendly match between Hongkong Rugby Club and a team from H.M.S. Andromedu. at the Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon attracted a good number of spectators. The sailers, who have only taken up this game onite recently, put out a strong team and started off in a very vigorous monor, doing all the pressing for a considerable time. Then the Club took matters in their own hands. Playing a brilliant passing game, their speedy forwards dodged all opposition and secured a try which Pearce converted. Fairly equal play followed, till the Andromeda obtained a series of scrums from the five yards mark, but so stout was the resithe line, but nothing resulted, and half-time arrived with the score standing: Hongkong, 5 points; Andromeda, 0. On resuming, the landsmen showed they were still full of running and two drop goals put them up other six points, followed by another try shortly before the close. Immediately afterwards, Andromeda secured their first and only try, and the game ended in a win for Hongkong by 14 points to 3.

A YEAR'S NAVAL MISHAPS.

A return of the casualties to ships of the tindings of the Courts, issued in December, is interesting for its contrasts to the drastic action taken recently by the Admiralty in relation to the grounding of the Assistance. By last year's accidents 43 persons lost their lives and 36 were injured. The most serious was the loss of 11 lives through the sinking of Submarine A1 by the Berwick Castle on March 18th. Eighteen battleships, 22 cruisers, and 67 torpedo-boats and destroyers are mentioned in the year's accidents. The constant activities and high speed of the destroyers and tornedoboats make every page of this Admiralty return bristle with records of collisions by these vessels, either with each other or with obstrucin command" is set down as the cause of command are also recorded.

The position of women in the affairs of the world was amusingly set forth by Dr. Emil-Reich during a recent lecture in London. "In America the woman governs the man absolutely," said Dr. Reich, "In a certain sense the last man that came to America was Christopher Columbus. The American woman lives for what she calls 'a good time.' Her interest is not man nor what is noblest in man-paternity. Her ambition is to study spiritualism, then Buddhism; then wireless tolegraphy, and then the novels of Marie Corelli. What characterises the French woman is that absolute assertion of her energy, not so much of her will-for she is easily yielding. The German woman is a combination of the English and French, but in Prussia the greatest worker is the new woman who is no woman. In Ireland woman attractive, with a certain primness. She is the making of Ireland, which is one of the things you do not read- not even in the Daily Mail. 1906. Weight for inches as per scale. It is not a protective tariff that will save you," man.
